IT Support – Practicum Placement Opportunity

The Human IT Company has a current opportunity to host an IT Students seeking a practicum placement as part of the IT Support, Network Administration, or other related certificates. Practicum periods should be of 140 hours or more; sorry, practicums of less than 4 weeks will not be considered.

IT Support practicum students will interact with clients and end-users, and involves tasks related to infrastructure support and maintenance on an ongoing and project basis. An IT support technician is a person who enjoys learning new things and solving problems. They must be able to communicate in a clear and professional manner and interact well with other employees and clients.

The Human IT Company provides a supportive environment that is committed to lifelong learning, professional development, and putting people first. We'll show you the things you did not learn in class, show you what the trenches look like, and help you hone your skills to become a better IT support person.

Work hours can be adjusted to accommodate schedules across school semesters, and flexibility to allow for exams or changing school priorities can be discussed. Although this role would work for remote students, the best experience will come from those in the Greater Vancouver area, who are able to accompany team members to customer locations.

Personal Qualifications
